The Clayville Folk Arts Guild, a nonprofit organization, was formed to provide for a living folk art museum at Clayville, and to be a source of education and research on life in early Illinois. The Guild has grown to be one of the great craft preservation organizations in the country. In cooperation with the Sangamon State University Foundation it sponsors the spring and fall craft festivals and special weekend events devoted to specific crafts during the summer and fall.

Membership: $3 per year, Individual; $5, Family; $25, Sustaining; $100, Life.
